

Communication

and

Autism

Communication can be hard for some people with Autism

They might not understand facial expressions and when to talk or listen

We can help autistic people understand us by using Makaton

Watch the following video and practise the different Makaton signs